

GOV. EMMERSON DEDICATES ROUTE 173 AT HARVARD FETE

Wars on Tampering With Gas Tax; Secs Early Completion of System

1,000 ATTEND DINNER

If the present method of distributing road funds remains unchanged, the state will complete the bond issue road program by 1933, Governor Louis L. Emerson told a crowd of 1,000 at the dedicatory exercises of state route No. 173 at Harvard Monday night. The governor was making definite reference to the present method of distributing the funds collected through the gas tax, and his statements were interpreted as meaning that the state administration would brook no interference with the tax.

At present the counties get one-cent of the three-cent tax, and two cents go to the state. The cities, however, are fighting for half of the state's share and hope to push such an amendment to the gas tax law through the next session of the legislature.

Secs Completion in 1933.

With the completion of the bond issue routes to 1933 the gas tax burden can be wiped off the state, according to the governor, who pointed out that after that time only sufficient money would be needed to maintain the highways.

The governor prefaced his address with story telling and general comment on the occasion. He paid a most worthy tribute to his friend and member of his official cabinet, M. F. Walsh, editor of the Harvard Herald. His address, not including the preliminary remarks, appears in another column of this issue.

Cleveland, Sheets, Talk.

Other speakers at the celebration were Harry H. Cleveland, director of public works and buildings; Frank T. Sheets, superintendent of highways, and Leut. Gov. Fred E. Sterling. Blake H. Bell, prominent Harvard manufacturer, acted as toastmaster.

The celebration, which continued throughout the day Monday, included a parade over the newest paved portion of route 173, starting at Caladonia and continuing to Richmond, where the delegations from Antioch and Zion joined the 150 cars in the procession. The celebrants then returned to Harvard where the banquet to nearly 1,000 was served in the Harvard community high school.

Saunders' Day.

Throughout the day meetings and a general festival were held in Harvard to which Secretary of State Stratton and a score of state legislators were attracted. The highway was dedicated officially as Saunders road in honor of Eugene Saunders, postmaster of Harvard and one of the pioneers in getting the road recognized and paved by the state.

The celebration was attended by a delegation of twenty-five from Antioch, headed by Frank R. King and Herb J. Vos, members of the original committee for route 173, and they were honored by being placed at the speakers' table with other boosters who began their efforts to secure this important highway five years ago.

Allendale Sheep Win at the International Live Stock Exposition

Winning three firsts and two championships in the International Livestock Show at Chicago last week from the showing of nine entries, the Allendale Farm at Lake Villa again attracted national attention as a producer of the Oxford sheep. The sheep at Allendale Farm school for boys are largely raised by the agriculture students who are in charge of Director William Duncan, who is justly proud of the international reputation achieved by those in his charge.

Indiana won three firsts, Oklahoma college, a first and a champion, and Iowa a first and a reserved champion. "It was one of the strongest Oxford shows in the last ten years," Director Duncan said, "and it surely was a boost for that breed of sheep."

DEPUTY CAPTURES CHICKEN THIEVES

Are Traced to Chicago by McBride; Give Partial Confession

Identity of the two chicken thieves, who stole sixty-one chickens from the barn of Fred Hawkins Tuesday night, November 25, and Wednesday night of last week, was discovered Tuesday by Fred Hawkins and Deputy Sheriff Russell McBride, who traced the robbers to Chicago.

John Pastor, 32, and John Skubis, 33, were placed under arrest for the theft, following a partial admission, and other evidence which proved them to be the thieves.

Acting on information that these men were seen in Antioch with chickens last Wednesday, McBride located them in Chicago, where he found their coops full.

Fred Hawkins easily identified his chickens by their tameness to his approach, and the fact that he lost 52 Rhode Island Reds and nine black chickens on both occasions, which number was found in the Chicagoans' coops.

Unusual shoe prints in the mud, which were found to belong to one of the men, also helped McBride in solving the mystery.

Mr. Hawkins has spent his entire time in an effort to locate the thieves from last Thursday morning to the time of arrest.

In addition to the reward of $50 offered by Hawkins, McBride will also receive another of $100 offered by the county board of supervisors for arrests of livestock thieves.

The men arrested will appear before Judge Henry Wallenwein Monday morning at North County St. Waukegan.

Capacity House Greets Rotnour Players Here

A capacity house greeted J. B. Rotnour and his popular players at the Crystal Theatre here Tuesday night when the play "Where the River Shannon Flows" was presented as the opening production of the spoken drama season.

Many of the players familiar to Antioch theatre-goers during the last two years appeared in the cast, as well as many new artists Mr. Rotnour has selected for his company. Billy, the comedian, was funnier than ever, and the vaudeville specialties between the acts were especially pleasing.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Hoffman left for Melbourne, Fla., yesterday.

LOCAL FARM LADS PLACE HIGH IN NATIONAL CONTESTS

Represent Ill.; Win 2nd
Honors in Competition
With 13 States

The poultry judging team of the Antioch High School, consisting of Harry Johnson, Norman Barthel, William Yopp and Ward Wilson, won second place in the National Poultry Judging Contest held for 4-H club boys at the Columbian Exposition in Chicago last week. The boys from Iowa won first place. Other states competing were Michigan, New Hampshire, New York, Tennessee, North Carolina, Louisiana, Mississippi, Minnesota, California, Indiana and Nebraska.

The boys from Antioch, who had been selected to represent Illinois, received silver medals as a reward for their fine work. Harry Johnson was only 5 points short of winning the $250 award offered the high individual of the contest, having 830 points, while the winner, a boy from Iowa, had 835 points.

The Illinois team was coached by C. L. Kutil, instructor of vocational agriculture at the Antioch High School and advisor of the Antioch chapter of the Future Farmers of America.

Senior Play Cast Receive Praise

"The Patsy" Gives Amusement to Large Crowd
Mon. Night

H. S. ORCHESTRA PLAYS

The clever though apparently spontaneous acting of the cast in the Senior play, "The Patsy," which was held in the high school auditorium Monday evening, induced many compliments from the large audience attending.

The family squabbles of the Harringtons caused many appreciative chuckles throughout the crowd, while much delighted laughter greeted the snappy repartee, part of which was gained from a book guaranteed to make the owner popular, and part of which seemed to be undoubtedly original.

A more vivacious appealing little sister "Patsy" than Fanny Westlake could scarcely have been found; Carl Pachey, as her father, a good natured, long suffering grocery man, whose family had grown beyond him in their ideas of society, played the part naturally and effectively, having natural talent and a fine sense of comedy.

Oliver Hansen, as the spoiled whining society mother, wept and stormed most convincingly; and her beautiful older daughter, as cleverly played by Mildred Robinson, whose eyes swept her sister, father, and inordinates with constant scorn, played a suitable companion. John Dupre portrayed the character of a weak society man very well, and Jack Neabow was handsome as Patsy's lover, dark-eyed and serious.

WILLIAM YOPP WINS ON POULTRY IN NATIONAL CONTEST AT COLISEUM

Local Boy Wins Recognition
in National 4-H Club
Congress

William Yopp, a senior of the agriculture department of the Antioch high school, has done his part toward placing Antioch poultry industry before the nation. He did it last week at the Coliseum poultry show in Chicago where he showed a trio of pullets and a white Plymouth Rock cockerel and was able to place in a nation-wide competition of 4-H club exhibitors.

His trio of pullets placed second in competition with a very large class of Barred White and Buff Plymouth Rocks. The cockerel shown won fourth in an unusually large class.

Competition is keen. About 300 birds competed in the 4-H club classes. This is perhaps the first time anyone from this community has shown at the Coliseum show and it is the hope of farm leaders in that vicinity that more entries be made next year.

The program of standardizing poultry flocks, begun seven years ago by the department of vocational agriculture of the Antioch township high school, has since been sponsored by the Antioch-Lake Villa Poultry Association, and a marked improvement in specimens of the feathered tribe shown at the annual exhibitions has been the rule.

Thus it has remained for young Mr. Yopp to prove that this community is on the right track toward its goal of a "standard flock on every farm."

Antioch says: "Congratulations, William."

Protective Association Starts Membership Drive

An organization meeting of the present members of the Lake County Farmers' Protective Association will be held on December 30 to elect officers and deputies. A complete canvass of Lake County to gain new members soon will be effected.

Interest in the former Protective Association has been revived, due to unusually heavy losses from the theft of livestock in Lake County, particularly near Lake Zurich, Ivanhoe and Prairie View, during the past year. The Pure Milk Association of Lake Zurich was instrumental in settling the board of supervisors to offer a reward of $100 for the arrest and conviction of any one stealing stock in Lake County. One reward has been paid to date. Over 100 Lake Zurich members are already enrolled in the organization.

Anyone not reached by the canvass can enroll with the secretary of your Pure Milk Local or at the Farm Bureau office. Several more thefts of livestock have been reported to the sheriff in the last thirty days. It is imperative that the Protective Association obtain its quota of members and become a real factor in tracing crime and preventing illegal trespassing.

the earnest gray-haired lawyer, and Ed. Strang, the taxi driver, stolid and self-respecting, were equipped particularly to play their parts.

Because of the lack of vigorous action in the play, more character and facial acting was required. Much credit is due the director, Miss Lillian Schroeder, both for her selection of the characters, and for her training. The Senior class expressed appreciation of her work by presenting her with a handsome desk set.

The orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Jeffers, entertained before the play and between the acts.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Walsh were guests at the Robert Vogt home in McHenry Sunday.

FLAMES DESTROY COTTAGE AT LOON LAKE; $5,000 LOSS

The Loon Lake cottage of Thomas C. Taylor, 4307 Montrose avenue, Chicago, was completely ruined by flames Sunday evening. Damage to the cottage and furniture which was totally destroyed, was estimated at $5,000.

The Antioch Fire Department was called, but the blaze had gained such headway before it was even reported, that all efforts to save the building, which was located on the south side of the lake, were in vain. However, nearby cottages were saved from the fire, which threatened them by flying sparks.

The owner was notified in Chicago and immediately hurried to the spot. He carried $3,000 insurance on the place. It is said.

Fellowship Is Great, Judge Persons Tells Men's Club At Dinner

First of Men's Meetings Is Held at M. E. Church
Friday Night

"Good fellowship is one of the greatest things in the world," Judge Perry J. Persons told a group of forty-five business and professional men assembled at the first banquet of the newly formed men's club at the Methodist church here last night. Judge Persons held the closest attention of all present for nearly an hour while he told of welfare work in Illinois, and especially in Lake County, as related to the county court. The judge has spent a great many years on the county bench and speaking from a great fund of experience his remarks were enlightening and were interspersed with many incidents of keen human interest.

Other speakers were County Superintendent-elect W. C. Petty, J. C. James, who introduced his friend, Judge Persons, Attorney Guy G. Ellis, and E. A. Grunzmacher. Rev. Philip T. Bohl was toastmaster. Vocal selections were rendered by Edmund Jeffers and the male quartet.

The dinner was served by the ladies' aid of the Methodist church.

At the close of the meeting it was voted, unanimously to have the meeting regularly and the organization was effected with S. E. Pollock, president, W. C. Petty, secretary, and C. L. Kutil, chairman of the program committee for the next meeting which will be held Friday, January 9.

$50,000 Fire Destroys Buildings on Estate of William Mitchell

Fire, believed to have been caused by crossed wires and overheating, resulted in the destruction Saturday night of nearly $50,000 worth of property on the country estate of William H. Mitchell, member of the Onwenta Hunt Club. The place, formerly known as the Cannon Farm, is located two miles southeast of Millburn.

The fire started in a groom's cottage, caught on the barn and spread to a granary and garage before the Antioch and Fox Lake fire departments arrived to check the flames. An insufficient supply of water hindered their efforts.

Realizing the hopelessness of attempting to stop the fire before help was available, the farm employees rescued all the stock, horses, and barn equipment.

Although Mitchell could not be located, his sister, Mrs. Louise Kellogg, of Lake Forest, hastened to the scene.

LAST PRE-CHRISTMAS COMMUNITY CHORUS REHEARSAL MON. EVE.

The weekly Monday evening gathering of the members of the Community Chorus at the high school will again be held Monday evening, December 15, to resume practice on the "Messiah," which was interrupted by the Senior play. All members are urged to attend, as this is the last meeting before the Christmas holidays.

Original enthusiasm and interest in this new society has continued throughout the practices. In fact, some who have not already joined have been inquiring of the director, Mr. Jeffers, and of members, whether it is too late to join. Now members will be welcomed, and it is hoped that they will be present at the next meeting.

FOX LAKE H. S. BOYS CONFESS TO CHURCH SHOOTING

Young Rabbit Hunters Admit Shooting at Church Windows

Four Fox Lake high school lads were implicated in the shooting and smashing of three Florentine glass windows of St. Peter's Catholic church on Tuesday night, December 2, according to the confession of Clarence Howard, 18, who was arrested by Deputy Russell McBride Saturday night and taken before State's Attorney A. V. Smith by Sheriff Lester Tiffany and Chief Deputy Thomas Kennedy.

He and his companions, Howard Johnson, Clarence Ostrander, and Frank Smith had been rabbit hunting at night from a car. Howard admitted upon being questioned by Colonel Smith. About 10 o'clock they reached the church. Howard and Johnson remained in the car, while Smith and Ostrander left the car and fired at the windows with their shot guns.

Deputy Russell McBride, following up a clue received immediately after the vandalism had occurred, made the arrest of Howard Saturday night on a warrant charging malicious mischief. His companions were arrested on similar charges, and two of them, Smith and Ostrander, are being held at the county jail.

"BUGS" MORAN CASE GOES TO JURY TODAY

Criminal Record of Gang Leader Is Aired in Court

The case of George "Bugs" Moran, erstwhile gang leader, who is being tried in Waukegan in Judge Person's court on vagrancy charges, went to the jury at 2:15 o'clock today.

For two days Moran had listened to Chicago's police officials recount his criminal career dating back to 1919 before a jury and Judge Persons.

As State's Attorney A. V. Smith and his assistant, Sidney H. Block, questioned the witnesses, Richard I. Gavin and former Circuit Judge Clair C. Edwards, objected to almost all questions asked. Moran's record shows several arrests in Chicago and Bloomington on charges of larceny, burglary and robbery, including the theft of a horse and buggy in 1912.

One of the witnesses for the state was George Stried, chief investigator for Colonel Smith and the squad of private detectives who arrested Moran two different times at Mrs. Elizabeth Cassidy's place at Bluff Lake, on October 21 and October 26, 1930, on warrants charging Moran with vagrancy.

Since the St. Valentine's Day massacre at the garage at 2122 North Clark street, Chicago, in which Moran's most loyal henchmen and companions, including Frank Guzzaberg and John Clark were killed, Moran has been on the straight and narrow path. It will be shown.

His lawyers sought to prove that Moran, since forsaking his past activities for which he spent many days in jail on charges of robbery, larceny and burglary, he has been vice-president of the Central Cleaners & Dyers of Chicago, a $300,000 corporation, of which Moran owns $100,000 worth of stock and has an annual income of about $25,000.

Authorities, however, are skeptical of the business aspect of the career of Moran, and today federal men were directing an inquiry into the income tax angle of the case. If "Bugs" is really in a legitimate business with an annual income of $5,000 a year, it may be he owes Uncle Sam an income tax.

APPROACHING A NEW ACCIDENT RECORD

From the standpoint of deaths due to automobiles, 1930 is the worst year in our history, according to the National Safety Council which reports fatalities for the first nine months were 2 per cent above 1929. The report is based on statistics covering areas containing about half the nation's population. Recklessness and carelessness are still rules of the road with thousands of motorists.

However, it is encouraging to note that there are a few rays of light in the accident gloom. Tremendous success has been attained in reducing the number of accidents to children by means of safety instruction in schools. Throughout the nation many organizations are working to prevent accidents, not only automobile, but those occurring in homes and industries. The National Safety Council announces that it will hold twenty-five regional safety conferences in various parts of the nation during the coming year and it is estimated that 1,000 delegates will attend each one.

Another hopeful sign is the strong trend toward laws requiring drivers' examinations. Some of our states have such laws now and report exceedingly good results. When legislatures meet again it is almost certain that most of them will consider stricter licensing laws. Their value is demonstrated by Pennsylvania where 75,000 of 300,000 applicants were unable to pass the tests on the first try.

A SURFACED ROAD TO EVERY FARM

The American Country Life Conference at the Wisconsin College of Agriculture, has taken a stand for "a surfaced road to every farmer's gate." It was pointed out that of the 3,000,000 miles of road in this country, only 300,000 miles, or 10 per cent, are state and federal highways. The remaining 90 per cent are classified as local roads and few of them have all-weather surfaces. At least 50 per cent of all farmers are served by dirt roads which become virtually impassable to motor traffic in the winter.

The conference favors the use of surfaces whose wearing qualities will be adequate, but whose original and maintenance cost will be low. Such surfaces, bound by asphaltic oils, have been used in various parts of the country for many years, and have made splendid records of inexpensive service.

It was brought out at the conference that many farmers are forced to keep their motor vehicles at the junction of dirt roads with hard-surfaced main highways, and to transport themselves and their families between those points and their farms by horse-drawn wagons. Until such conditions are corrected, agriculture will continue to struggle against tremendous odds.

THE AMAZING AGE

If "law" did what it is supposed to do, the United States would be the most moral and "crimeless" country in the world. No other nation has ever had such a volume of legislation.

Yet the newspapers sag with accounts of the doings of celebrated gangsters and "racketeers." Law enforcement officers search frantically for ways to press charges against them, but to no avail. An arrest is the signal for swift activity on the part of lawyers to show that supposed law-breaking is "within" the law.

The irony of such a situation is inescapable. We have thousands upon thousands of criminal laws and there is talk of asking the federal government to take a hand in subduing the criminal element in one of our gang-ridden cities! As a "crime remedy" it is often proposed to make it a crime for a perfectly honest citizen to own a revolver or pistol—while it is a rare week in which gangsters fail to "hump" someone off with machine guns. And still we talk of passing more laws. Why not reverse the process and enforce some existing laws? We do live in an amazing age!

THE QUESTION

What modern invention is the greatest boon to the housewife? (Submitted by Margaret F. Morrison, 211 E. La Salle st.)

THE PLACE

22d st. and Cicero ave.

THE ANSWERS

Miss Norma Higgins, 3442 Rice st., machine operator: "The vacuum cleaner is the housewife's greatest blessing. The cleaner saves time and energy. It can be handled easily and it does not raise dust. It replaced the broom which required manual labor. The task of sweeping was tedious and the dust which was raised by the broom was both annoying and injurious."

Miss Mae Pelling, 4815 Forest ave., Downers Grove, machine operator: "The automatic dish washer is the housewife's greatest blessing. Nobody likes to wash dishes. It is a dirty and unpleasant job. With an automatic washer all we need do is place the dishes in the washer and turn on the juice. Housekeeping lost its most objectionable and tedious duty when the dishwasher made its appearance."

Miss Luella Crowe, 327 Shenstone rd., Silverdale, machine operator: "The washing machine is the housekeeper's greatest help and time saver. The washer also does the work better. Those who remember when a whole day was passed in washing clothes certainly do appreciate the modern mechanical device. Even the first washing machines, which were operated with a crank, were a blessing to the housewife."

Miss Marie, Christiansen, 1117 Wrightwood ave., machine operator: "The electric refrigerator is the most useful modern invention. When we have something which we want to keep from the children we place it in the icebox and lock it. The modern icebox preserves food at an even temperature and permits the housewife to prepare jelly and ice cream with a minimum of effort."

Miss Elsie Dudesky, 3445 Prairie ave., Brookfield, machine operator: "In my opinion the electric stove is the greatest boon to the housewife. On a stove, we are a source of constant worry and a producer of dirt and soot. Now all the housewife has to do is to attach the plug to the socket or press a button and she has heat for cooking meals in a hurry."

Imported Gadgets

He Means Well, Poor Fellow

Naturally he wants to play Santa Claus in a big way. Surprise his wife at Christmas! So he worries for weeks and at the last minute—in desperation—he rushes out and buys a gold-plated gadget or a custom-built gewgaw. And a month later it goes up to the attic. . . It's ill because he has an idea women don't want something practical.

But—Eyes left for a minute or two and read what five women, picked at random, told the Chicago Daily Times inquiring reporter a short time ago. If your home hasn't all the electrical conveniences it needs, why not change your tactics this Christmas and give your wife something she can really use. Electrical gifts will let her sprint through the housework and be free to enjoy half-holidays she could never dream of taking before.

At either is offered the largest and finest exposition of stylish, durable furniture at lowest prices. Terms if desired. Phone No. 8126.

These progressive furniture houses well merit the position they have attained as two of the foremost home outfitting stores of this section and because of its unequalled quality and metropolitan service during the many years it has served the public in this community.

These popular establishments are stores "of the people and for the people"—stores built on the plan that aims to give mutual pleasure, satisfaction and benefit, for it is the aim of the proprietors to make the life of the people worth while by supplying at reasonable prices the necessities of comfort, conveniences and the luxuries. Bode Bros. Co., and Hub Furniture stocks have been selected by the management with a view to perfection in three things: Comfort, beauty and durability and embraces as a whole the most beautiful and durable productions of the American furniture maker's art. It makes no difference whether it is a room you desire to furnish, the whole house or just a piece or two that you want, you can secure it here on the most favorable terms that the market affords.

A line of snappy rugs is carried. They are artistic and the coloring and effects charm and delight the eye. The people in charge of this department are familiar with the business and can tell you exactly what you need to match up with your surroundings, and when your house is fitted out, everything will move in peace and harmony.

The proprietors are prominent citizens, who are thoroughly conversant with the business and have always been boosters for all things that promise public improvement.

This firm conducts two of the largest furniture stores in this section of the country and the size of the establishment would be a credit to a much larger city.

We desire to compliment Bode Bros. Co., and Hub Furniture for there is nothing that adds more materially to the progress and development of this section than progressive business men, who appreciate the necessity of keeping up with the times in the selection of their stock and the manner of operating their business.

J. C. Penney Company Inc., Department Store

Kenosha's Toy Center

This nation-wide merchandising establishment is located in Kenosha in a splendid modern and spacious building on 58th street and is the recognized real economy shopping center of this section and at this time is featuring the largest stock of toys to be found in Kenosha.

The toy department is a popular feature of the store, where the latest ideas in toys for all children are displayed. Before buying toys, etc., for gifts, be sure to visit Penney's. You will be surprised at the low prices asked. Wonderful offerings for holiday shoppers here. The lines of toys, weapons, etc., will make any child happy at Christmas and the wide selection of toys and gifts sold at low prices will be found to meet the children's requirements of a real gift.

The stores of this nationally-known and popular merchandising establishment never hold "sales." They aim to give their customers uniformly fair treatment every day in the year. That is their idea of better serving the interests of those who patronize them. They do not believe in asking you to pay them one price today for a certain article and then when you get home read in an advertisement that "for tomorrow only," or "during this sale," the prices have been reduced. Such matters do not check up well with their idea of the Golden Rule. They want the public to enjoy the fullest return today, tomorrow and every day from each and every dollar you spend at their stores.

This mammoth family of departments keeps a staff of many buyers constantly in the biggest markets of production, buying and paying cash for their goods which the business of their chain of many stores must have. When you have made comparisons, you have been impressed that quality and dollar for dollar, the values at Penney's are indisputably superior, and that this is not occasionally but every day in the year.

They safeguard the interests of their customers in five ways—they buy right in the beginning; eliminate middlemen's profits, frequently taking the entire output of the firm; they always demand reliable standards of workmanship and materials, and last but not least, bring the producer and consumer in closer touch with each other and give the benefit of this contact to both.

Here you will find varied lines of toys, gifts, ladies' ready-to-wear garments, men's clothing, and furnishings, footwear, general dry goods and notions.

We wish in this Shoppers' Guide to call the attention of our readers to this great store, where savings are greatest every day and to commend the manager for his pleasing and prompt business policies.

Goodman Clothes Shop

Kenosha's Men's and Young Men's Xmas Store

The nationally known brands of Foreman & Clark clothes, Crockett & Knapp hats and caps, Eagle shirts and other popular brands are featured here in Kenosha at 5615 16th street at prices that mean real savings.

The management urges the men and young men at this time to take advantage of the sale now in progress at this shop and the unbelievable values offered. Do your Xmas shopping now. While the SALE lasts you will be enabled to secure nationally popular brands at prices you simply cannot afford to pass up.

This is one of the few proprietors of a clothes shop who has gained the enviable reputation of giving more value for every dollar expended at their clothes shop than can be equalled elsewhere in this community.

The Goodman Clothes shop has gained a long list of satisfied patrons in this and the surrounding counties who have found that clothing and furnishings purchased at this store gave satisfactory dollar-for-dollar service. Among the patrons will be found people of all classes. In this comprehensive stock is kept clothing for the man on the farm, in the factory or of a profession. Each of their particular needs is supplied here in an almost endless array, including exclusive patterns and popular weaves, or if desired, the more moderate priced in neat and approved designs. Nowhere else can there be found a line or an assortment that surpasses those to be seen at this establishment and few indeed are able to approach it in these features, and at such values as are here offered. The service distinguishes this clothes shop above others of ordinary class in a similar business.

A large number of the men of this section regard this store as the logical one for shoes, rubbers and other articles of footwear. Here are carried shoes of all kinds for all purposes in all styles and leathers. Work shoes, business shoes, dress shoes of every description. The summer line consists of oxfords, pumps, sport shoes and in fact everything in footwear for men and young men.

In haberdashery you will find collars, neckties, handkerchiefs, ulster suits, pajamas and other articles in gents' furnishings. The stocks are large, selected by buyers of excellent taste and rare judgment and priced most reasonably and make ideal Xmas gifts.

Here can be found the largest assortment of the very latest ideas in hosiery to be found in this part of the state.

In making this review of the commercial progress of the community, we wish to commend the proprietor, Mr. Goodman, upon his efforts to serve the people with dependable merchandise and to direct your attention to this establishment as one of the reliable business firms of the community which has added to the development and progress of this part of the state.

Kenosha Milk Producers' Assn.

Worthy Successors to the Bruner Dairy Co.

This is one of the leading modern and sanitary equipped dairy plants in the state, at 6319 22nd avenue and one that is very satisfactorily supplying patrons of their community with pure pasteurized milk and cream. Phone No. 8137.

Why should not this dairy be able to produce as good, if not better, dairy products than any other company? Its plant is in the midst of one of the most prosperous farming sections of the United States; its supply of cream comes from the healthiest and best fed cows in this particularly advantageous section, for their animals.

No community today can expect to hold the farmers' attention as a trading point unless it offers him a ready market for his products, and in this respect a well regulated and efficient Milk Producers' Association is of great benefit.

In early days the farmers hesitated about entering the dairy business through a lack of convenient marketing facilities. When he was compelled to ship his milk and cream to far distant points and to dealers he knew nothing of, he was paid any price they saw fit to pay and the expense of shipment often ate up all profits.

By means of dealing with such a reputable association as this establishment the farmers and the producers are provided a dependable and most convenient market. The guiding principles in the conduct of this dairy are: Accurate tests, honest weight and highest market prices. This, added to their personal service and modern equipment, makes it the ideal and logical trading place for farmers of this and adjacent territories.

The management of the Kenosha Milk Producers' Association will always be found ready and willing to assist or advise in any way and will be pleased at any time to furnish the latest market quotations.

G. R. Kinney Co. Inc.

Shoe Store

The Economy Family Footwear Service

This well-directed branch of this nationally known house and largest retailers of shoes, is located in Kenosha at 5820 Sixth avenue and has won wide public favor economically offering high grade footwear. Wonderful showings in Christmas gifts suggestions. They are helping to relieve the depression of the country, by offering as example a special sale on boys' and men's oxfords at $1.98.

The G. R. Kinney Co., Inc., have factories and supply their stores. This insures full factory operation and that all shoes will be made at a reasonable figure. The middleman is eliminated with all his expensive selling ways.

They carry a very extensive stock of shoes, rubbers and galoshes for men, women and children, having all sizes in the various patterns and styles that are the order of the day. From this vast array they are able to fit anyone. The reason some people are not fitted properly in shoes is because they select from a limited line and do not get the right size. The sales people are familiar with styles, sizes and are able to render the most complete service.

The great success of G. R. Kinney Co., Inc., is due to the fact that they have sensed the trend of the times in the retailing of merchandise and are selling their goods, strictly on their merits and the fact that they offer such wonderful values.

In this review we are glad to compliment the manager upon the large trade enjoyed at the Kenosha Kinney store and invite all the people to visit here on their shopping tours.

assistants are registered pharmacists and so are thoroughly experienced in compounding drugs and having a complete stock, are not compelled to resort to that pernicious habit of substitution.

They carry a large and complete line of druggists' sundries, which by means of their large patronage, is always new and fresh.

The fountain and cigar departments are strictly up-to-date and stocked with the best for refreshment of the thirsty or where the Havana-hungry man may revel in his own brand. The drinks served at this fountain are prepared from the purest fruit juices, syrups and other ingredients and this place is noted as the most popular oasis in the city.

make purchases in large quantities, thus getting consideration in prices which amounts to considerable and this saving they are enabled to pass on to the patron.

They have justly earned the position they occupy as one of the foremost home outfitters in this section of the state. This has been brought about through their combining unequalled quality and metropolitan service. Truthfully it can be said that no business in this section maintains a better heritage or a higher standing in this line than this well known firm.

All the particular brands of goods in these lines that are known as the standard of quality are the brands that will be found in this stock. The people of this city and surrounding territory have long since learned to depend on this firm to have "what they want when they want it," and also that this concern is the one that will keep "Good Quality at Reasonable Prices."

Although early in the season, if Antioch can show themselves to be the equal of Barrington, a strong hope of again coping the tournament chamampionship will be held forth. In a practice game with Genoa City Monday afternoon, when five of the boys, Fuchs, Turk, McNeil, Brogan and Kline, journeyed there after school, the locals swamped them by a score of 10-21. They were defeated by a score of 24-18 with the Lake Geneva squad Friday evening. Another practice game will be played with the Wilmet Pirates on Saturday night, December 13.

Opera "Carmen" Discussed And Sung at Woman's Club Meeting

Two important meetings are to take place at the church next week. The first is on Tuesday evening, when a health talk sponsored by the Ladies Aid Society and given by the Waukegan Aluminum Company will be given. Lunch will be served and it is hoped that a good number will be present. On Wednesday evening, December 17, the men of the community will serve a sauerkraut dinner from 6 o'clock till all are served. This is for the benefit of the church, and the men have a very good meal planned.

The Ladies Aid held its regular meeting at the church last Wednesday afternoon, and also held the annual Christmas sale. They have many nice articles suitable for Christmas gifts. You are invited to see them at Mrs. Fred Hamlin's home where they are on display.

The Woman's Club, of Lake Villa, held a delightful meeting at the Frank Hamlin home last Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Harold Tregillus, of Chicago, the guest of the club, gave the opera, "Carmen," in story and song in a manner which pleased her audience very much. Several of the music students at school were present. The hostess committee, consisting of Mrs. Bertha Fish, Mrs. Little Boehm and Mrs. Cora Hamlin, served cake and coffee.

Misses Helen Wilson and Venolita Phillips, of Lake Villa, attended and played on a piano recital given at Burlington, Wis., by their teacher, Miss Emma McLaughlin, Sunday afternoon, at 3 o'clock, at Fellowship Hall.

Mrs. Nellie Wilton, who has been at the mineral springs in Waukegan, taking treatments, returned home this week, much benefited.

Alice Dixon spent the last week with her aunt in Burlington.

Don Dixon, who has been with his brother, H. C. Dixon, for several months in the store, has gone to Waukegan, where he has a job driving a bread wagon.

Mr. Orvis, who lives at Monaville, went to the Lake County hospital last Friday for treatment, following an accident some time ago when he broke some ribs.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Weber, Jr., started Friday morning on a motor trip south. They visited Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Kerr at Bloomington, Ill., and friends in St. Louis. They expect to go on to St. Joseph, Mo., to visit Rev. and Mrs. Snyder, who formerly lived here. Rev. Snyder is now district superintendent.

Mrs. Gorman, of Haloesville, is with her daughter, Mrs. Albert Kapke, for a few months.

Miss Fitch, Miss McNulty and Miss Schlabach attended teachers' meeting at Deerfield on Saturday.

Miss McNeely entertained a friend from Hammond, Ind., on Sunday.

Mrs. Joe Hucker outlasted her bride club at her home last Thursday. Mrs. Paul Avery was awarded first prize, Mrs. Al Boehm, second prize, and Mrs. Wm. Duncan, consolation prize.

Mrs. Anna Beck, who has been with her sister at Fox River Grove for several months, came to Lake Villa on Sunday to be with her niece, Mrs. Fred Hamlin, for the winter months.

While Wm. Schwank, accompanied by Howard Mastino and Lloyd Wetzel, of Antioch, was returning to his university work at Bloomington last Sunday afternoon, the car skidded on a slippery bridge and was damaged so that they were forced to remain at Joliet over night. However no one was injured and they were able to journey on the following day.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Nader drove to Bloomington last Saturday afternoon to be the guests of Nathan Mohar at his home there. They returned late Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Nader, of Grayslake, called on the Frank Nader and Fred Hamlin home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Hamlin and son spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hamlin.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"God the Only Cause and Creator," was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ. Scientist, on Sunday, December 7.

The Golden Text was, "Known unto God are all his works from the beginning of the world" (Acts 15: 18).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "O Lord, how manifold are thy works! In wisdom hast thou made them all; the earth is full of thy riches. The glory of the Lord shall endure forever: the Lord shall rejoice in his works" (Psalms 104:24, 31).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "God pronounced good all that He created, and the Scriptures declare that He created all" (1st, 620).

There were 102 in attendance at Sunday school last Sunday. A men's Bible class, which was just organized, met for the first time. Mr. E. A. Grutzmacher is the able leader of the discussions. The men of our church and community are urged to cooperate in this enterprise. The goal of attendance for the men's class for next Sunday is to have a larger number present than in the ladies' class. There are still several cases of the tumors which have kept members of the primary and junior departments away.

The Sunday school board met at the home of Mrs. Lux on Monday evening. Final plans were made concerning the Christmas program which will be given at the church on the evening of Tuesday, December 23.

The Thimble Bee society met at the home of Mrs. Grutzmacher on Tuesday afternoon to complete the plans for the annual winter bazaar which will be held at the church on Thursday afternoon and evening. The chicken dinner which is a part of the bazaar will be ready to be served at 5 o'clock.

The choir will meet for rehearsal on Wednesday evening at 7:30. The meeting of the boy scouts will be held on Thursday evening at 7:30, and the Saturday morning scout hike will be taken, the boys leaving the church at 9 o'clock.

The Men's Club dinner and program of last Friday evening was attended by more than forty men. An informal program of speeches and music was enjoyed by all. The address of the evening was given by Judge Persons of Waukegan. After the close of the program an organization was effected with Mr. Pollock as president, Mr. Petty as secretary, and Mr. Kull as chairman of the program committee for the next program, which will be held on January 9. It was decided that the Men's Club will meet every month with a dinner and informal program.

English Divine Healer Visits

Wisconsin; Stops at Burlington

Crowds gather wherever he comes to see this wonderful man who has helped so many in his lifetime. Cripples come from far and near, many with crutches that they hope to discard; scores flock to him suffering with one affliction or another. They bring their trouble to him, their misfortunes, their losses, their business reverses, their sorrows, their heartaches, their tales of ill-fate (the unkind world); their bereavements, and ask his advice; ask him to help them; to make life easier for them, to show them the way that there may be done for them what has been accomplished for so many unfortunates before them, when nothing before seemed to help and bring success, happiness, comfort, prosperity, and health into their lives.

This gifted man, once a minister, was led to the discovery of the hidden secret of Bible healing that before you. He makes no charge for his services. People can give him whatever they want to towards his travelling expenses—little or much—that rests with you.

Monday night, December 15, Rev. Hawkins will deliver his favorite lecture, "DIVINE HEALING AS IN BIBLE TIMES." He declares that healing of sickness may be accomplished today, as two thousand years ago, under the same conditions—he will point out the conditions that must be observed; then universal healing is possible, he says.

Hear this grand lecture on the greatest subject ever talked upon—see this grand man about your diseases.

Lecture will be in the hall in Burlington, Wis., Monday night, December 15, at 8 p. m.

Those wishing to come to the healer personally and tell him their troubles may come to him at the Badger Hotel, in Burlington, Wis., on Wednesday, December 17.

Admission to lecture will be FREE, only a collection after the talk.

Everyone welcome and everybody come.

Believe it or not! There are only two weeks more before Christmas. Disregarding the question of gifts at this time, have you looked well at the toes of your youngsters' stockings, which they confidently expect to hold an orange, a popcorn ball, or box of candy on Christmas morning? Or are there older children away at school to whom a box of homemade candy would bring a touch of home? Or a lonesome bachelor uncle who thinks that no one can make candy as well as you do? Anyway, it's time to start thinking.

For the Lollipop-Lickers.

2 cups sugar
2 1/2 cup light corn syrup
1/4 teaspoon oil of peppermint
1 cup water

Vegetable coloring in desired shade
Put sugar, corn syrup, and water into saucepan and stir over low fire until sugar is dissolved. Cook, without stirring, until temperature 310 degrees F. is reached. Remove from fire, add coloring and flavoring, and stir only enough to mix. Drop from tip of tablespoon on smooth oiled slab or baking sheet. Press one end of toothpick or skewer into edge of each lollipop.

Peanut Brittle.

2 cups chopped roasted nuts
3 cups granulated sugar
Put sugar in frying pan. Stir over slow fire. It will lump, then gradually melt. When pale coffee color, and clear, add nuts and pour quickly on greased tin. When cold break into pieces.

Candied Popcorn.

1 1/2 cups sugar or maple syrup
1 tablespoon butter
3 tablespoons water
3 quarts popped corn
Boil sugar or syrup with butter and water until it spins a long thread; pour this on corn and if desired shape into balls.

Pulled Molasses Candy.

1 cup molasses
2 cups brown sugar
1 cup water
3 tablespoons vinegar
3 tablespoons butter
Put molasses, sugar, water and vinegar into saucepan and stir; boil until very brittle when dropped into cold water; add butter and pour on buttered platter. When cool enough to handle, butter hands and pull until light brown. Pull into oblong strips and cut with scissors.

HERE'S SOMETHING TO WRITE HOME ABOUT

Students of home economics learn many household hints, some of which have been known through the household ages, and others which have just been discovered. Their mothers may or may not know that:

In a custard recipe calling for several eggs, one or more may be left out if one-half tablespoonful cornstarch is added for each egg omitted.

When you wish a rich, dark, meat color for soup, use caramel, which is sugar browned in a frying pan until a golden brown, and then dissolved in a little water.

To warm over biscuits, muffins, or rolls, sprinkle lightly with water, place pan containing them in a pan of hot water, and put in oven a few minutes.

To preserve ice in a refrigerator: Wrap top of ice well with thick newspaper, keeping air from ice.

A teaspoonful vinegar beaten into boiled frosting to which flavoring is added, will keep it from being brittle or breaking when cut.

A Surprise Package
Ruins That "I Know
What I'll Get" Idea

What shall I give them for Christmas? Nearly every magazine one may pick up this month has suggestions for Christmas gifts. Some of them are sensible and then again—some of them are simply outrageously high-toned—way beyond the narrow horizon permitted by the average purse.

Upon the mother of the family often devolves nearly all the Christmas shopping. She must buy three or four presents for father, each one marked "From Sister" or "From Brother" or "From Baby" and similarly for the other members of the family. This alters the Christmas shopping problem, somewhat.

Christmas gifts this year, for many folks, will be an exchange of necessities, except for the little children,

In these new styled goloshes, particularly endorsed by women in Illinois and the northern states, where the streets are slushy much of the winter, is found the latest design in coloring and shape. The lower part and heel is encased in black rubber, while the upper part is of marbled streaked rubber, with the flap of a darker tone. The zipper is an essential part of this boot, but the buttons and uneven "flap-line" give the effect of a neat buttoned gaiter. The mottled cloth galosh, is much in favor with well-dressed women, also, but because the above model affords almost perfect protection, school girls and office girls, particularly, approve it.

of course. Yet grown folks like surprises and gifts which are "more ornamental than useful," sometimes.

After you have decided that you will give father two silk shirts, Junior can give him a pair of socks, and Sister, a hairbrush, because he needs them. Instead of having Baby give him a tie, which he will buy himself as soon as he needs one, why not make that last gift a leather cigarette container which you know he really wants, but feels is too much of a luxury?

And along with Big Brother's jacket and clothing, which he actually needs, wrap up in a huge package a ticket to a college basketball game. And Big Sister would just dote on a ring, to show her classmates, the more, probably, because she really didn't need it.

You yourself are better acquainted with your family's pet aversions and secret longings than any one else, so the matter may be left for you.

Then there are some persons who just won't give practical gifts, but this year a warning against too much prosaicism in gift selection will no doubt be of more value than a caution against excess frivolity in gifts.

Hints For Homemakers
By Jane Rogers

ROAST lamb can be given a delightfully exotic flavor by basting every fifteen minutes with the following mixture: one teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon sugar, one-half teaspoon mustard, one and a half tablespoons garlic vinegar, and six tablespoons salad oil.

Sour cream has many culinary uses. Pork tenderloin prepared with sour cream will delight the most exacting epicure. Place the tenderloin in a frying pan with a liberal amount of butter and chopped onion. Add salt and pepper. Baste with one-half cup sour cream and cook until tender.

Everyone Will Enjoy
These Church Suppers

By JOSEPHINE B. GIBSON
Director, Home Economics Dept.,
H. J. Neils Company

A CHURCH or community supper always is an excellent way to raise extra money. But the committee in charge must plan the menu wisely, and then carefully estimate the amount of food needed, in order to serve a nourishing and appetizing meal at a moderate price, and at the same time allow for a fair margin of profit.

Here are two excellent menus, with the quantities necessary to serve fifty people carefully worked out. If you must plan for a hundred or more, simply double or triple the figures given here. Although the cost naturally will vary somewhat in different sections of the country, both of these suppers are comparatively inexpensive—and no matter which you decide to serve, everyone will vote it a huge success.

TOPPY'S TRAVELS

Synopsis: Toppo leaves his home to follow his canary, Lanny, who flies away. After many adventures, he is captured by the Pillows, enemies of his Cloud-Queen, whom he tried to save. His sword, however, is hidden from the enemy. Toppo's guard, through the loyalty of Mr. Frog, Toppo's friend, is locked in with him, and together they hear approaching footsteps. Continue—

Toppo and the guard waited anxiously as the footsteps came nearer. Would it be a friend or an enemy? Their doubts were soon set to rest, for one of the Pillow soldiers began yelling outside the door.

"Where's that guard, Guard! Oh, Guard! Where are you?" he called.

Although the little guard quaked all over, he answered bravely, "I'm locked in here."

"Locked in there?" the big Pillow repeated angrily. "Who locked you in there?"

"A frog," the guard answered in a trembling voice.

"That frog that fought against us?" the big Pillow asked.

"Yes, that's the one," the guard agreed.

"Where is he now?" the big Pillow demanded.

"I don't know," confessed the guard, "but I am so hungry. Is there any way to break down that door and bring me something to eat? I'm getting weak."

"I'll go and bring some men and break down the door for you," promised the big Pillow, "although you really ought to be left to starve in there with this General Toppo."

Toppo became desperate. He must do something soon. He was so hungry and now if the guard were released, there never would be any chance of escaping.

He thought and thought and at last cried out, "Oh, Mr. Frog, why don't you bring some help, quick!"

"How can I do any more than I am doing?" Toppo heard a grumble, and looking up, he saw Mr. Frog peering in through the crack that Toy, the dewdrop, had come through.

"Mr. Frog, we've got to do something. The Pillows are coming in a minute and break down the door, and then they'll guard me again. This guard is almost fainting with hunger, and I'm nearly as bad."

"You are only chained by your feet, now," remarked Mr. Frog. "I have an idea. Wait just a minute." And off he went.

Toppo waited impatiently, wondering what Mr. Frog could be thinking of. After a minute, when Mr. Frog failed to return, he became anxious, fearing that he had been captured.

However, Mr. Frog did return, and once again he peeped through the crack. "I have the sword," he said in a low voice. "The guard is so weak now that he will not be able to overcome both you and me. Be prepared to take the sword and cut your chains, and fight, if necessary."

The guard heard him, of course, and, although very weak, he aroused himself. "I'll fight to the end," he muttered.

Mr. Frog unlocked the door. Before he could reach Toppo, the guard had flung himself against him, and knocked him over, and although Mr. Frog tried, he could not get away. Exerting the utmost strength, he threw the key to Toppo, who snatched it before the guard could reach him. When the guard came within reach, Toppo held him with one hand as tightly as possible, while Mr. Frog cut the chain with the sword.

Mr. Frog wanted to kill the guard then, before the soldiers should come back, but Toppo would not.

"Follow us, if you want to, or stay until your friends arrive," Toppo said to the guard.

The guard began to shout, although his teeth chattered, and his eyes were full of fear.

Toppo looked around and saw the Pillow soldiers rushing toward him.

"Run!" he called to Mr. Frog.

They ran and ran, but the Pillows steadily gained on them. Toppo was so weak that he could scarcely run. He felt dizzy, and wondered if he were going to die.

SYNOPSIS

CHAPTER I—Renewing a childhood attachment, Ernestine Briceford, of a wealthy Chicago family, is tremendously attracted by Will Todd, youthful newspaper artist, son of a not particularly well-to-do carpenter. Her sister Lillian, more of the conventional type, and aware of the attitude their father would take toward his daughter's marriage to an impecunious youth, urges Ernestine to end the affair, but the latter, capable of a passionate attachment, and realizing that Will Todd she has found her ally, refuses.

CHAPTER II—The love-making progresses swiftly, and finally, largely because of Ernestine's urging, they make a "runaway" marriage. Briceford is infuriated but helpless, Ernestine being of age, and after a stormy scene the girl, with her husband, leaves her parents' home. Loring Hamilton, wealthy young lawyer, long Lillian's suitor, who has been her fiancé, is shocked by her elopement. Ernestine realizes the difference her marriage has made in her social sphere, but, secure in her love, faces the future bravely.

CHAPTER III—The bride night is spent at Will's home, and next day they begin their married life in a single room in a humble neighborhood. Ernestine realizes the difference her marriage has made in her social sphere, but, secure in her love, faces the future bravely.

CHAPTER IV—John Poole, Will's best friend, successful though dissipated artist, gives a birthday party for Ernestine at Rusty Pastano's, a Bohemian resort on the fringe of the underworld. Pastano, notorious as a bootlegger and gang leader, irritates Ernestine by his criticism of Will for bringing his young wife in such a place. Appealing to Will to take her home, he delegates the task to a friend, Tommy Tucker, explaining that he must see Poole, who has drunk too much, to his home. Ernestine is hurt and indignant. The situation is saved by the appearance of Loring and Lillian, who had heard of her whereabouts and with whom she leaves the night.

CHAPTER V—Renouncing him for leaving her "unprotected" in his care, Ernestine takes an attitude which awakens Ernestine to the realities of her new life. She is conscious of approaching motherhood, and in anticipation of the event opens a small sewing account.

CHAPTER VI—Will's father dies suddenly. A suggestion that the funeral be held from the Briceford home, the Todd house being small, meets with refusal, to Ernestine's deep sorrow, though her father's attitude is quite different. He offers Ernestine financial aid, which she declines, in loyalty to Will. Pastano, having heard of his wife's visit of consolation, and Ernestine is touched by their friendliness. The shock of her husband's death leaves the elder Mrs. Todd a hopeless invalid. Lillian and Loring are married.

CHAPTER VII—Will's mother dies almost immediately after the birth of Ernestine's baby. The couple live in the Todd house, Ernestine having the intention of "going into" politics in association with Pastano, with whom he has formed a friendship. He is eager for wealth, changes in Will's office fail to bring him advancement, and Ernestine is again looking forward to motherhood.

CHAPTER VIII—Pastano acquires a home at Lakeside Park, a fashionable resort, where the Bricefords have a cottage. Loring and Will quarrel bitterly, apparently over John Poole, and the sisters, loyal to both their husbands, feel separated. Will, disobeying an office rule, is discharged. Poole, indignant, resigns. Ernestine's worries, and her approaching motherhood, affect her health. On a trip to the bank she faints on the street.

CHAPTER IX—Unconscious, Ernestine is taken to a hospital, where Will, sent by Loring, finds her. After a night of anguish the baby is born and Ernestine's recovery assured. Will joins Poole in opening an independent studio, which promises to be successful. The Todd's take up their life again.

Ernestine stayed in the hospital until the baby was a month old. Will borrowed the money from Mr. Poole and paid the hospital bill, paid the nurse and the two doctors, the day she was to be discharged. Loring protested in vain. The removal to the expensive private hospital had been his suggestion—it was he who got the nurse, who got the two doctors; he had planned to meet all these expenses. But Will was deaf to him. He was going to pay Ernestine's hospital bill, he declared, if he had to rob a bank. What business was it of Loring's? It was Will's wife—Will's child.

Legally the debt was Todd's. There was nothing that could be done about it, but the argument increased the bad blood between the men. Ernestine wanted to go to her own home, she told Lillian. Mamma was hurrying back from Europe. The house at the lake was closed. Lillian remonstrated with Ernestine's determination to go back to the house out in Mayfair.

"But what will you do?" she asked, and her face grew red. "Will isn't even working."

"Yes, I am," said Will. "I started today. Mr. Poole is going to open an independent studio, and I am going to work for him. He's got hold of the copyrights to his old strip and we are going to syndicate it ourselves. It will bring us in a lot of money. I'm to get fifty dollars a week to begin with. . . . and we'll be all right."

Lillian's dismay was increased, not diminished, by this news. The combination of Will and Mr. Poole was worse than nothing, it appeared to her. "I don't know what mamma will say," she protested feebly, but neither Ernestine nor Will seemed to be moved by that.

It was a wonderful day when Ernestine went home. All the way home in the taxi Will held the baby in one arm and Ernestine in the other, and his face was shining with joy when at last they stood in their little kitchen, she weak and trembling in his arms. He was starved for her, but he kissed gently, got the rocker and filled it with cushions and placed it by the open kitchen door. She sat there and watched him prepare supper.

"Will," she said, when they had eaten, and he had closed the door against the full dusk, "you're like you used to be. You're like you were that day we met upon the street, when I first fell in love with you. Tell me, what is it?"

"The new job, I guess. I'm crazy about it, Ernestine. In the first place, to be working again is good—and to be working for John Poole—And then, Ernestine, I think we're going to do it. I believe we'll make a success—a big one."

She Sat There and Watched Him Prepare Supper.

His enthusiasm was boundless. While he washed the dishes he talked to her, and then they put the children to bed, and he drew Ernestine onto his knees.

"Tell me, Ernestine—it was an ungodly business—but you aren't sorry, are you? Now that you're both home again—you're glad we've got her—aren't you?"

"They sat looking at the baby. Will pressed his cheek against Ernestine's shoulder.

"Tell me," he implored her. Ernestine understood his need for assurance. He was still suffering from the humiliation Lillian and Loring had heaped on him.

"They said—I shouldn't have allowed—allowed," he exclaimed sharply at the word. "I never thought about it."

"We're married, aren't we?" asked Ernestine, and as his bright look questioned her she shook her head a little.

"That's all," she said. "That's the answer. I'm your wife—I love you—of course I'm glad."

He kissed her passionately. It seemed so long since she had been in his arms like this—close, close.

"Oh, Ernestine," he said, "I don't deserve you. The future is uncertain. But if ever a wife deserved a good husband, you do. But, sweetheart, it's hard, it's been harder for you than for me; don't think I don't know it. But it's been worth the risk, hasn't it?"

"As long as we hold together," she whispered. "As long as we love."

And he poured his kisses upon her thin flushed face.

"I'll make up to you for everything—you'll never be sorry," he told her. And she lay against him, yielding, tremulous, and in love, forgetting everything else for him as she had forgotten again and again.

CHAPTER X

Will Has a Vision

The firm of Poole and Todd found itself at the end of two years established beyond question. It owed its success to Will's terrific efforts. He had met and overcome one after another of their natural foes: Mr. Poole's idleness and inexperience. By a kind of fierce affection he had dominated and controlled the old man and kept him working. The profits were divided, after he had his fifty a week, and Poole his hundred. And out of his share of the profits, Will repaid his partner for the loan for Ernestine's hospital bill. He repaid him the exact half of the amount Poole had sunk into the business at the beginning.

And after two years he found himself face to face with the one enemy he could not conquer. Ernestine noticed that he grew thin and pale, that fall that the baby, Elaine, was two. "What is it, Will?" she asked him. "I thought everything was fine now."

"It's Poole," said Will. "He's not drawing—he's hoarding, but, of course, that's not new. Only—he's lost interest."

"What do you mean, Will?"

He seemed reluctant to put his thought into crude words.

"He's falling—his health. His eyes are bad."

"You mean—he's old?"

"Yes," said Will. "That's what I mean. He can't help it—poor devil—he struggles against it—but it's showing on him."

"But, Will, what are you doing?"

"Why, I'm managing—but that's all. When I can get him to help, we work together. We've got the strip all planned out for another year, the general sequence of things. But I don't feel that I can do Poole's stuff. My own ideas would be different. I can do the drawings well enough—nobody would notice, probably—but—"

"You don't want to go on—without him?"

"The stuff is his, Ernestine. I don't want to—there's something fundamentally wrong—even when I'm his partner, and all. For a while, as a makeshift, I can go ahead, and take care of the meagles of it, and do the conversation—but actually, we haven't any business at all. We only have him—and when he's gone—"

Will sighed, and then squared his shoulders.

"Well—here's hoping," he said, and grinned at her. "I guess the old bird will snuff another season. You see—it's hard for me to crowd him, Ernestine. He is old, and his eyes are about gone, and he hangs on me—it's like making a sick old horse pull in the harness—for us, of course, it's for him, too, but it is really for us. We are the ones that will enjoy the money—not him. I find myself soft with him."

"I know," she understood this exactly, and her young face was troubled. She was blooming again with beauty and vitality. She had been a lovely but now she was in flower—in her middle twenties—young with beauty and grace, but with poise now, too, and a strong sense of accomplishment. She had background now of a new kind—not the background of parents and school and a fine home, but the background of effort and self-control.

"I'll take Peter," she said. "You can look after Elaine."

She was going to Lillian's, to see mamma who was home from New York for another visit.

Will watched the family away. Elaine perched on his arm. Elaine was happy with her father, and they made a game of supper. Now, at two, she was beginning to be a bonny baby. They had had a long struggle with her. But at last her heart was beginning to beat a rhythmic tune—a healthy organ instead of an undeveloped heart in an undeveloped body. It almost seemed that they could breathe again.

After the little girl was sleeping Will sat beside her, smoking and watching her—dreaming those things a father dreams for his little daughter. The daylight was going, and the last of the light seemed to gather in an idleness about the baby's face. Suddenly Will was shot through with an emotion more powerful than anything he had ever felt. For just an instant the baby face seemed the only thing in the world—the lashes down in a shudder against her cheek—he saw not flesh, but color—not bony structure, but pure line—ideal.

He stared at her, and saw not the child but her picture. In that moment he sensed the true identity of her being, as one hears in astonishment clear tone and harmony where there is no sound. He was profoundly disturbed. Why, he could paint her—this was new—this feeling; he had not felt like this before, not even when he gazed so constantly in colors as a child. He had never felt this; he could paint her; he knew that he could.

During the whole month of January Mr. Poole did not draw a line. He came to the office and sat there, but Will could not get him to work, and found himself incapable of much arguing.

Early in February he said to Will one day, "This is my birthday."

"Is it?"

"Yes—I'm sixty-five—but I feel fifty-five, Will, I'm through."

"You're through?"

"Yes; I'll never draw another line. I can't work any more."

There was no questioning the sincerity of his tone. Will found himself accepting this statement as true. Mr. Poole was through. It would be idle to argue or to cajole him.

"Well," he said after a little, "this is the end of Poole and Todd, then."

"Yes," answered his partner heavily. "It's the end."

After a few minutes of silence, Will got up and began to pick up the drawing boards, to sort out pencils, rack up the still cardboard sketches and set the office in order.

"I'd like to go to Florida—where it's warm," said Poole dreamily. "I've been cold for months."

Will looked at him queerly. He felt sad. The old man was, in his own eyes, a failure. He did not feel, nor was he warmed by the praise or the recognition of others. Long afterward Will felt that in that moment he had known the cold and clammy breath of death. The death of activity, of hope; the yielding of some long-loved and never-forgotten dream.

"Let's have a party at Pastano's to-night. Mostano's in town—and McDermott would come. Do you think Ernestine would be my guest—at Pastano's?"

"I think so, John. She'd do most anything for you."

"Ernestine"—the old man seemed to wander—he paused a long time, and looked at Will with a faint shining of the old intelligence in his face. "Will, put those damned matchboards down and come here—I want to tell you something. It was Loring Hamilton that had you fired from the Sun. He had Wiston's affairs in his hands—they were thicker than anyone knew, and Wiston had reason to please Loring. Wiston got tight one night and told it. And lost his job for it. McDermott will be friendly to you, if you take any work to him."

"Don't worry about me, John."

"I'm not worrying, you young devil. I want to tell you, though, about Loring. Watch out for him. He's got power now, in a way. He's going to London next year for Pastano. He's the prince of the bootleggers now. Pastano is using him recklessly. He doesn't give a damn for Loring—he'll probably ruin him in the end. But Pastano does care about you—and about Ernestine."

"What Loring does is nothing to me. Like most mean things, it worked out for the best. I mean—you can't do a dirty trick as easily as you think. I've come further this way than I had stayed on the Sun."

The old man left to go and make arrangements for his party, and Will, after a brief telephone conversation with Ernestine, pitched into the files. It was late afternoon when he went home, and as he went he was turning over in his mind the possibilities for the future. His enthusiasm had gripped a new idea. Ernestine would not like this. But he could do well for himself. He could!

"After all," he said to himself, swinging along among the small tidy houses, "after all, I was in danger of becoming a copyist. I've learned all that Poole can teach me. It's time for me to work alone—to develop my own ideas."

Ernestine was dressing, and giving instructions to the neighbor girl who was to stay with the children. "What do you think, Will? Shall I wear my red dress? I thought I would never go to Pastano's again. It's years, though, since we went, and I don't mind going a bit. Will, you aren't listening to me. I've been so vexed with Peter. He's had two whiplugs, and needed a third. He's getting too big for me to spank any more. I wish you'd take a little puddle to him."

BEAUTIFUL MEMORIAL IS RECENTLY ERECTED IN LOCAL CEMETERY

The Zola Monument Works, located at Woodstock, Ill., have just completed the erection of an impressive Montello granite monument, in memory of the late Eugene A. Wilton, of Lake Villa, Ill. The die, or top piece of the monument, is all highly polished, having inscribed on both front and back, "E. A. Wilton." At the grave stands a correctly proportioned marker, bearing a fully detailed inscription.

Other memorials which were erected by the Zola Monument Works in the Hillside cemetery during the past year were in memory of—
Mae Labdon,
Isabelle Westlake,
Augusta Tschertl,
Charles A. Clark,
John and Frances E. Didann,
Joseph and Martha Westlake.
The Zola Monument Works have a large plant at Woodstock, Ill., and are equipped to build every type of memorial in any kind of granite.

A Word About FORD BRAKES

Because of the "40-60" ratio between the front and rear brakes of your "Model A" Ford, the rear linings wear faster than the front. This distribution of braking effort assures good steering control because the front wheels will still revolve, allowing the car to be steered, even though the rear wheel brakes are locked and the wheels slide.

Better let us go over the braking system of your "Model A" before you lose this advantage to which you are entitled.
